CONSULTING ON THE NATURE OF LEADERSHIP

"Running with the Herd"

You have been running with the herd for so long that you are exhausted. You may be struggling to catch your breath or to look thoughtfully in search of YOUR best path forward.

We live in a world of over stimulation, intense demands, and a belief that we must keep up. This constant strain without consideration leads to burnout and a lack of fulfillment. Listen in to hear how to stop running aimlessly, and how to start owning your journey towards wellness, productivity, and joy.

Stacy Wood, Bio

It is often said that teams are only as good as the person who leads them.
Meet the woman who believes and supports the notion that leadership of self must come before leadership of others.

Stacy Wood, founder of Through the Woods Consulting, is an author, speaker, certified coach, and facilitator.

She brings a wealth of leadership, training, and sales experience into her boutique consulting practice from years as a successful medical sales consultant, time as an adjunct professor with the University of Richmond, as a former training manager with Novartis Animal Health, and currently as a Coach within CHIEF and as the faculty lead for the Women in Medicine Summit 'Leadership Primer'.

Stacy is an 'Executive Wrangler', guiding high-potential individuals to next-level leadership.

She engages as a keynote speaker focused on the power of connection, backed by her years of experience coaching individuals and teams through connective communication. Additionally, you will find her passionately sharing the message of women's leadership development with the aid of her signature framework, the 'Steppingstones of Success'.

She can be found speaking at a wide variety of industry and organizational conferences including, Women in Healthcare Conference, AVMA, Veterinary Leadership Conference, Women in Medicine Summit, The WILDwood Symposium, and Healthcare Businesswomen's Association.

In addition to inspirational speaking at conferences and meetings, Stacy works with motivated women and top corporations to provide executive coaching, interactive workshops, and retreats. Stacy's clientele list boasts firms such as KPMG, Becton Dickinson, Dominion Energy, Genworth Financial, Uniformed Service University of the Health Sciences, Markel, Williams Mullen Attorneys, and many others.
